The Senate was engaged all the morning on general orders, but little of any importance transpired there, the bills being mostly of a local nature. The real work of the session has not yet commenced; but from the rapid illing up of the lobby, I should judge that some important measure is soon to be brought up.

The House Committee on Federal Relations held a lengthy session this afternoon, but adjourned without agreeing upon any definite proposition. One of the members, in his remarks, censured the Speaker for holding hack the appointment of the committee, and out announcing it immediately after the passage of the resolution, instead of waiting nearly two weeks. He bolleved that there was a selfish motive for this course.

The session was taken up with reading resistations and exchanging views. Enough transpired to prove that it will be hard for the committee to come to an unnanihors are impracticable, but a mijority will present astrong report. Nearly all oxincides with the decision of Judge Smalley, and held that secession was rebollion, and robelien treason.

Mr. Robinson's resolution will be thrown overboard, and from the tone of the committee to-day a majority will present astrong report. Nearly all oxincides with the ballot on interference with slavery in the States, and the line of 36:30 made a constitutional provision.

NEW YORK LEGISLATURE.

ALBANY, Jan. 15, 1861. Very little of interest has transpired in the Sonate. The concurrent resolution of the Assembly, asking for a Joint Committee on Federal Relations, was returned to

Mr. RANSEY introduced a bill regulating city railroads, limiting the fare to three cents for any length of road within the city limits, except where sworn testi-mony is given that the company loses money, when not more than five cents may be charged. Also, that pas-sengers who cannot obtain seats shall not pay over two cents. The penalty for overcharge is fifty dollars. The remainder of the session was passed in considering bills in Committee of the Whole.

ALBANY, Jan. 15, 1861. The Committee of the Whole passed to a third reading the bill appropriating $200,000 to redeem the State stock issued to the Auburn and Rochester Ruliroad.

issued to the Auburn and Rochester Railroad.

Mr. McDermorr moved the reference of the petitions for the reduction of milk freight on the Harlem and New York and Eric roads to a special committee of five.

Mr. Varnay opposed the motion, and it was lest.
The bill to protect fruit growers by punishing trespassers as felons was reported favorably.

Among the bills noticed was one by Mr. Surawood, to provide for the proper supervision of tenement houses in Kew York, and for the care and supervision of vagrant children.

By Mr. Webster.—To regulate the sale of fruit in New York.

By Mr. Shaw.—To amend the Revised Statutes relative to quart, and regulate the transportation of milk beyond the finite.

Mr. Brigham introduced concurrent resolutions reorgabizing the Court of Appeals. They make the Court consist of six Judges from January 1, 1863, four Judges to constitute a querum, but three necessary for a decision. They give the Legislature power to increase or diminish the salaries of the Judges every two years.

The resolutions are the same as introduced last year, except that back pay is not provided for.

On motion of Mr. ELINGWOOD, of Richmond county, the bill to enable the Supervisors of that county to borrow thirty-six thousand dollars was reported complete.

Mr. Chapt called up the resolution requiring the Sherin, Registra and County Clerk of New York to report the whole amount of moneys received by them.

Several motions were made to defeat the resolution by Messra, Walsh, Cours and Hutchins, but it was finally Adopted by a vote of 55 to 39.

Mr. PEREDIBLASE and Mr. PURKER offered resolutions urging the general government to take possession of all the government property in the hands of rebels at any cost.

Mr. KERMAN thought that enough had beep done al-ing the general government to take possession of all the government property in the hands of rebels at any cost.

Mr. KERNAN thought that enough had been done already in this direction. He offered as a resolution, that while we tender to the federal government our support in whatever prident, energetic efforts it shall make to preserve the Union, we recommend that it practice as far as possible the utmost mederation, forbearance, kindness and conciliation in the cruiss which now exists. Referred to the Committee on Federal Relations.

The resolution of Mr. Pierce, directing the committees not to report any bill or local objects or special incorporations, that might be enacted, was debated, emaculated and passed with the addition, "But whenever the Committee think justice will be denied by the want of a general law they will report that fact to the House.

Mr. Woodbarry, by consent, introduced bills to repeal Bection thirty-one of the Metropolitan Police law, and to nillow the Croton Aqueduct Commissioners to finish the bridge at the aqueduct over the Harlem river otherwise than by contract, and to authorize them to make necessary repairs at the aqueduct.

The Trial of Jackslow.

Taxrow, Jan. 15, 1861.

The United States Circuit Court met to-lay, and the trial of Jackslow was moved. It was stated that the panel of jurors had been served on the prisoner's counsel this morning, and the statute requires that it should be perved two entire days before trial. In consequence of this being the case the trial was postponed to friday morning next. Thirty-four witnesses on the part of the Government were bound over in the sum of $500 each to appear at that time. The counsel for the prisoner requested a process to be based to compel the attendance of Dr. T. R. Vanck and Roht J. Delton, of Jersey City, and Prof. Gook, C. I have heard the opinion expressed by responties that Pailey will not be accepted as State's evidence, subsequent developments not warranting such a course. Others who were suspected of being parties to the robbery, judging from the statements of Bailey, have covered their tracks, and cannot be indicted. The ppinion now is that Russell will be indicted as a receiver of stolen goods or accessury to the crime.

I learn from reliable authority that a movement is on oot at Albany which is calculated to have a great effect on the course of the cotton trade, to the advantage of New York and the North generally. A law is to be pre-sented which shell exempt cotton in bales from the paymeet of any transportation on the New York canals. This measure will add greatly to the amount of cotton transported over the inland routes to Northern railroads.

The fire, which was undoubtedly file work of an incendiary, originated on the ground floor, among the stock of groceries, hardware, &c., of Messrs, H. H. & J. A. Weils (who also owned the building), which was greatly injured. The loss is not known, but must be heavy, insured in New York companies for $3,000 on the building and about $2,000 on the stock.

Rarey again on the Stage.

Nible's Garden was again crowded by a well dressed and respectable audience, who assembled to witness the feats and hear the remarks of Mr. Rarey on the "ubject of horse taming. From the large number of indies p. oe ent, it may easily be concluded that the "softer sex" are as much interested in horse-flesh as the rougher portions of humanity, and their bright eyes eagerly watched every motion of the tamer, while they shuddered at any apparent danger, and at the end of each feat rewarded his successes with smiles. The introduction to his tec-ture was, as has been before reported, the same mimic stable yard, the same slight man, the same remarks. Cruiser was next introduced, everything told about him, the animal foudled and played with and finally led the manner of an embarrassment of musical riches, and therefore, we were not surprised to see that on last night the Brooklyn public refrained from rushing through the sleet and slush to assist in the inauguration of their new heatre. Nevertheless the audience was large and fashionabe, the parquet and boxes beamed with beauty, and the opening was altogether an auspicious one. The Brooklyn Opera house is a perfectly well built and most accurately. off. A comparatively quiet horse was next introduced to illustrate Mr. Rarey's remarks, and the full process of "strapping" and mastering gone through, as has been involved the strapping of the same of the same

"strapping" and mastering gone through, as has been speciously described. After the animal had been thoroughly conquered he was led off and introduced. Mr. R. said the report had gone around the city that Jo Anderson was as bad as before. He had often answered, when questioned on the subject, that one lesson did not entirely conquer a horse, but he would let his audience see the effect of one lesson on Jo Anderson. He had not seen him since he first practised upon him outhat stage, and during that time the horse had been at Dr. Grice's stable, under the charge of one of his own grooms. It had not been considered safe to have the horse shod for four years until that day, when his groom took him to the blackmith's for that purpose.

The horse, when he came on the stage, seemed to have lost that viciousness which characterized him on the former occasion, but he was still very restless when touched near the head. He had been noted as a biting horse, and Mr. Rarey's purpose was to cure the horse of that failing. The straps were adjusted, and after a tusel of about two and-a-half minutes Jo Anderson seemed to think "discretion the best part of valor," and laid down. But he was upagain, and as soon brought down. Mr. Rarey began playing with his head and jaws, having removed the obting straps," when up jumped the animal again laid down of his own accord, got up again, and again laid down of his own accord, got up again, and again laid down. R. Rarey then knocked the horse's teeth together, with rather a loud force, took off his leg strap, jumped on and over his back, and went through all the manouvres before described, ending with putting his arm into the horse's mouth, and beating a drum on his back, showing him to be completely subdued.

Having led him off the stage Mr. R. introduced his little Shetland ponies with the same remarks as formerly. He then said that he had been sent for to see a very vicious mare, but on arriving at the place found the aminal good enough with any one else but the owner, on a Seizure of the Marion.

LETTER FROM CAPTAIN WHITING.

TO THE ROTTORS OF THE EVENING POST.

In your reporter's account, in Saturday's Evening Post, of my statement of the particulars respecting the grounding and seizing of the steamer Marion at Charleston last week, there are some errors calculated to do me injury both at home and abroad, and I, therefore, ask your attentien to and correction of several misattements.

In the first place, I do not reside at New Brunswick, and the interview with your reporter took place at the hotel, and in the barrom, in presence of Mr. Reid, one of Spofford & Tieston's confidential clerks.

I did not state that "I had handed a written protest against the seisure of the Marion to Covernor Fickens." I never saw the genileman, and it was to the agent and Charleston owners that I objected to the movement in behalf of the New York owners. I was proffered the berth of sailing master, but for very good reasons declined. I did not say that Charleston was in the hands of a "moth," nor did I liken it to a "unatic asylum." I said that "the outside pressure was so great that whatever of conservative feeling existed" (and I know there is considerable of that even now) "was overshadowed completely by the secession masses," and that when I left the pe-ple were "critiqy with excitement." My display of the American ensign before Fort Sumice will probably lead to my removal from the command of the Marion, but I shall not close my remarks without repelling the charges made against Messrs. Spofford Theston & Co. of "collusion with the seceding authorities of South Carollica."

thority, but with pleasure, and I know that there is not a man in their employ but would labor faithfully, and if need be fight manfully, to protect the interests of this generous and liberal firm from harm. I am satisfied that if the matter rested with them alone I should not lose my command, nor would our flag lose one bright star from its em mand, nor would car manage and a second a second and a second a second and a second a second and a second Late commander United States mail steamer Marion. New York, Jan. 15, 1861.

Central Park Skating Adjourned.

Much disappoin ment was manifested yesterday morning by a number of persons when, on arriving at the Para, they found there was no sketting, although the flags on the cars still stated that the ball was up. Such deception on the part of the avenue railroad managers may have induced a few persons to ride yesterday, but it will ultimately tend to their disadvantage; for, like the hoax on the M. P.'s, when really true, the statement will not be believed. On arriving at the Park, not only was the ball down, but also the white flag over the rou bouse—the red pennant of danger waving in its stead. The reason of this course of action was that the oce was very soft, and, if skating had been allowed, it would have been so wretchedly and roughly cut up that it would have destroyed it for skating during the whole reason. Further than this, nearly two hundred men were engaged clearing off the snow and all other impediments from the surface, and it was deemed the better course to allow them full scope for their work for at least one day. Should frost set in before a thaw, or snother heavy rain, the ice will then be in a first rate condition. So hope on, boys.

The heavy rains of the preceding night had made the paths and the drives in anything but an agreeable state for either pedestrian or sleighing parties. Yet the jingle of more than one, or even one hundred, sets of bells, told plainly that if ever so slight an opportunity exists for a sleigh ride our clitices will take advantage thereof. But few persons were to be seen on foot, onless they had come there for the purpose of skating, and those very soon left the grounds, for the half diluted snow had a great effect on their "understandings."

The roadways to the Park were in the most uncomfortable state imaginable, which those who walked very soon found out; for, what with the sait on the motto "there a nothing like leather" could only be made applicable when nothing better could be obtained. were engaged clearing off the snow and all other impedi

COLONEL TITUS DISCHARGED.

The Clinton Hall row was adjudicated upon by Justice Councily, of the Jefferson Market Police Court, yesterday

Captain Caffray, of the Fifteenth precinct, preferred charge of disorderly conduct against the prisoner, Colonel Titus, and prayed that the defendant should be dealt with according to law.

A number of citizens came forward, and stated under witnesses, decided to dismiss the complaint, whereupon Capinin Callray set up a great howl, and threatened to have the magistrate impeached for misconduct in office.

The Absom Poisoning Case. NDICTMENT AND ARRAIGNMENT OF THE PRIBONER— "NOT GUILTY"—TRIAL TO COMMENCE ON MONDAY

WHER, ETC., ETC. Yesterday an immense crowd assembled at the Hudson Yesterday an immense crowd assembled at the Hudson county Court of Oyer and Terminan, boy being held at Hudson City, before Judge Ogden, who present at the arraignment of William Abson, who stands charged with "having been seduced and moved by the devil, in No-yember last, to kill and slay Jano Absom, his wife, by administering to her poison, by which she died."

The prisoner ploudet "Not gully" in a tremulous voice, and was remanded to fail to await his trist. The counsel for the defence asking that they might receive time sufficient for a complete prearation of the cause of their client, the Judge considerately appointed Monday, 28th Inst., for the commencement of the trist, when it is expected the case will proceed without further delay.

In the meantime the attention of the Court will be occupied with evil cases and a few criminal indictments of no great importance.

trons a house wherein they may find comfortable seats, each commanding a full view of the stage; and not only that, but what is still more important, the laws of acoustics have been so carefully observed that the words spoken or sung on the stage in messe see may be heard in all parts of the theatre. The singers declare that the new house is most excellent for the voice, easy to fill, and, so far as their requirements are concerned, quite perfect. For the rest, the decorations, arrangement of the auditorium, dimensions, &c., they have already been fully described. The sayle of the house is certainly hovel, and whether it will be entirely satisfactory to the Brook lyn public remains to be seen. Our own impression is that the public is not quite prepared for innovations so daring as those which have been introduced in this theatre. It is certain, however, that the house is well appointed; that it more than fulfils the expectations of the community for which it was built, and that it stands as a solid proof of the artistic aspirations of our friends across the river.

The concert programme for last night was as follows, Signor Coletti being substituted for Signor Susini, who is now suffering from an affection of the throat:—

"Schiller March."

The artists above named are quite well known to the public, and as they were all in their usual trim, no special criticism upon their performances is required. Signor Brignoli had the pleasure to sing the first notes ever uttered in the new house, and as the clear, silvery notes of his fine organ rang through the theatre and came back as decided as when first emitted, all doubts as to the acoustical success of the Brooklyn Academy vanished. After the overture, Mr. S. B. Chittenden, one of the Ommittee of Arrangements, made a speech in front of the curtain, and took some pains to make the audience understand that the edifice they had assembled to inaugurate was an opera house, not a theatre. It would have been much better had Mr. Chittenden's speech been omitted. We have been present at the insuguration of several opera houses in this country, and never before have we experienced the sensation of hearing a speech which was quite uncalled for. We believe that Mr. Chittenden can claim originality for his idea if not for his views.

The concert was very well, although a better programme might have been selected. Signor Mozio directed the vocal part, and Mr. Eisfeld conducted the orchestra. It is quite unnecessary to say that both these eminent maestri were quite equal to the positions assigned them.
